

Changes in general plan turned down by council

After hearing from property owners, the Upland City Council Monday night sent part of a general plan amendment back to the planning commission after deciding the land was better suited for residential use after all.

Part I of the city's general plan amendment No. 64 covers 27.25 acres at the southwest corner of Benson Avenue and Arrow Highway.

Based on one property owner's request, the planning commission had earlier approved a designation on future use for light industry.

But that property owner, Gene Bryant, and others told the council use of the land for multiple-family homes seemed the best course for the landowners.

In Part II of GPA 64, the council designated future light industrial use for 1.07 acre on the east side of Claremont Boulevard with frontage on the north side of Harwood Place.

Council members noted the narrow, triangular shape of the property and its proximity to a rock and gravel operation to the east makes the land unsuited for residential use.

For the larger area of land considered in the general plan amendment, Bryant said his letter to the city was prompted by concern that some type of development be allowed to get under way on the 27.25 acres.

He noted the property still carries outdated designations for an elementary school and neighborhood park no longer needed in the area.

Former councilman Hal Bailin, representing owner Lee Sobel, noted most of the surrounding property is in residential use.

Sobel first proposed a residential development for his approximately four acres in August 1977 and explained that plans for townhouses or condominiums on the land are currently under way.

$57 million project in Upland dropped by Downey-based firm

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

A Downey-based development firm has abandoned plans for pursuing a $57 million planned community covering 198 acres in northeast Upland after failing to reach agreement on escrow closure.

The Mayer Group Inc. notified city officials by letter late last month of its decision to cancel escrows for purchase of the vacant land located between Campus Avenue and Cucamonga Creek on both sides of 16th Street.

Kenneth Agid — senior vice president of The Mayer Group — said last week the project was dropped because of disagreement with the land owners — San Antonio Land and Water Cos. — on escrow closure.

The companies wanted a "faster close than we were prepared for," he said.

Agid "conservatively" estimated The Mayer Group spent $100,000 in staff time and consultants' fees on the project.

Upland officials said the project would have required an environmental impact report, the first such extensive study document for the city on a project.

Despite the firm's investment, Agid expressed no ill will toward the landowners nor the city.

He called Upland "an exceptionally fine city to be working with," and, referring to the land and water companies, Agid said, "They had their position — we had ours."

Charles Thomas — general manager of both the land and water companies — said Tuesday six other firms have made inquiries about the property since The Mayer Group dropped its plans.

He noted the land is still likely to receive comprehensive plans for development by a single company, although other firms would probably be involved after the original plans are drawn.

Commenting on the Downey firm's withdrawal, Thomas said, "I don't know what their problems were."

He noted escrow was scheduled to close Dec. 27. Negotiations continued, but when The Mayer Group requested a 90-day extension on the escrow the water and land companies refused, Thomas said.

He noted the sale price was $20,000 an acre, or nearly $4 million for the property.

Agid said the key to the escrow difference was the timing of the closure, not the amount for the land purchase.

Outside the northwest section of Upland, the 198 acres in the northeast represents the largest area of vacant land remaining in the city.

The Mayer Group submitted a draft environmental impact report and gave the planning commission its initial presentation on the plans in January.

Plans showed the area as a mix of residential, commercial and light industrial uses, along with recreational areas and other amenities. Estimates of total construction were nearly $57 million.

With revisions from its draft environmental report, The Mayer Group had proposed 725 residential units of three types on 123 acres, a 40-acre "business park" with light industry and a seven-acre commercial center.

Thomas said the firm indicated concerns with the city's growth-management plan and getting sewer hookups under the limited allocations currently available.

Upland's growth-management plan calls for 500 residential units annually, although the council recently approved an extra allocation of 70 unused units for the last two quarters of the review year.

Summerschool decision pending

The Upland school board Tuesday night heard two proposals sharply contrasting in concept and cost for holding summer school in place of the district program expected to be shot down by a lack of state funding.

Representatives of the American

Learning Corp., with offices in Huntington Beach, and the University of La Verne outlined their programs to the trustees.

The board called a special meeting for 7 a.m. next Tuesday at district offices, 904 W. Ninth St., to decide whether to hold summer school and, if so, through which of the two proposals.

Superintendent George Renworth stressed the need to make a decision on summer school soon, although he requested a few days for administration review.

Both the American Learning Corp. and the University of La Verne have been trying to step into a void of summer instruction left by Proposition 13 and the state's elimination of reimbursement funding of summer school.

The Ontario-Montclair School District recently approved the firm's proposal and Upland students could attend the summer session there.

Irene Nugent — American Learning's area manager and former principal of Berlyn Avenue School in Ontario — told the board the firm offers its own curriculum in a "basic skills program."

Reading, writing, mathematics and fine arts each receive an hour of instruction during a four-hour school day, she said. Mrs. Nugent said American Learning's summer school includes 24 days of instruction.

She stressed that the company supplies its own materials and develops a curriculum to "mesh" with the district's own classes, but not duplicate instruction given in the spring or planned for the fall.

The company's program, offered for the first time this year, costs $144 per student. Mrs. Nugent noted tuition drops 20 percent for each child after the first enrolled per family, bringing that figure to about $115.

Allan Fink — administrator for the University of La Verne's summer school program — outlined a less expensive alternative and one differing greatly in concept.

He stressed the flexibility of the university's program and that the summer school "would be as nearly as possible the program that you would put on yourselves...."

He added that the "basic program I presented is negotiable," because of varying amounts that could be paid for rental of district classrooms. The university would take a "flat fee off the bottom" of any money left after expenses to pay for its administration services.

Upland cager Stanford bound

By JIM BRYANT
Sports Editor

A few years down the line, one can reasonably expect to see Kim Kupferer serving as an attorney in a celebrated legal case, or even practicing before the highest court in the land.

And who's to say that sometime beyond that, the Upland lass will not be sitting as a justice of the Supreme Court?

After all, who (10 years ago) would have thought that Stanford University would be offering Kim an athletic scholarship in basketball?

The winds of change in the athletic spectrum have brought a refreshing breeze and today high school girls, like this talented Upland High School scholar-athlete, are being coveted by some of the nation's leading universities.

Her hazel eyes twinkle and dance as she looks to the future, one that will surely demand much of her and give her scant time to enjoy the many outside sports activities she now enjoys.

As she came up through primary schools, including Our Lady of Lourdes, Valencia Elementary and Pioneer Junior High School, Kim was busy with such other activities as soccer and softball.

"I guess I was pretty good in all of them," Kim notes with a confidence that her words would be backed by those men and women who served as her coach along the way, "but I thought that if I had a chance to be outstanding in one I would have to limit my field."

And so, as a Upland High School freshman, Kupferer relegated her sports activities to basketball where, as a 5-foot-11 player, she was an imposing figure on the junior varsity team.

Upland, then enjoying varsity domination of the San Antonio League, made use of her talents as a backup member of the varsity team in her sophomore season.

And in the past two seasons she hasn't missed a starting assignment, or hardly a minute of play.

Kim has only grown a couple of inches since her ninth grade days and is an imposing figure — both as a young lady and as an athlete.

"I don't mind paying the price of becoming a better player," Kim reflects as she speaks about the limited time available to her for a social life.

In addition to some three hours of daily basketball practice on a half-court behind the spacious Kupferer home in the foothills of Upland, she works at an Upland restaurant.

Those activities, plus studies that go into the making of a straight A average, demand much of an attractive teen-ager.

Even now, she is working on an exercise program sent by Stanford Coach Dottie McCrea.

But why would a young lady, who loves a home life that includes her parents and a brother (Todd) and a sister (Tracy), select a school somewhat remote from her present residence.

"I guess it was a compromise," Kim notes as she points to a stack of mail from many of the nation's major schools. Additionally, the two telephone lines into the Kupferer home were kept busy with constant calls from across the land.

She shunned many of the faraway calls with an honesty that speaks well of this young lady — and the environment of those she has been associated with.

"I guess it would have been keen to hear how much some of the schools might have wanted me," she states, "but it wouldn't be fair to tell them maybe and keep a letter of intent away from some other girl who might be on their list."

But why Stanford?
"Coach McCrea played center in basketball and I think she can bring the best out of me," Kupferer explains.

"I was warned by many persons I respect that perhaps I should go to a school where I would be sure of playing as a regular from the start," she adds.

"But I want to cause myself problems of proving myself. I want to become a good player because I earned it, not because I inherited the position."

Stanford has a returning center, but Kim only believes that will excite her to even greater accomplishments.

"I can't measure myself against other people whom I've never seen, but I think that I can play with the best by working hard."

She believes she has benefitted during her Upland seasons from the coaching of persons like Joanne Dixon, Donna Schein and Andy Sandquist, but notes that those people had to work with an entire team and had scant time for individual attention.

Fast-food restaurant given okay in Upland

Does Upland need another fast-food restaurant?

That was the question posed Monday night to the Upland City Council, and in this case, the council decided the answer was "yes."

On a 4-1 vote, the council overturned the planning commission's denial of a conditional-use permit for an Arby's restaurant in the Mountain Arrow Center, northwest corner of Mountain Avenue and Arrow Highway.

Lewis Development Co. brought the conditional-use permit before the council on appeal.

Councilwoman Ina Petokas cast the lone vote against the plans after citing concerns over the traffic that the restaurant would generate.

The city had previously rejected a proposed site for Arby's at Ninth Street and Mountain.

Stu Barth — executive vice president of Gold Bar, franchise holder for the operation — said the description "fast-food restaurant" says nothing about quality, only speed.

"Arby's is a fast-food restaurant different from most fast-food restaurants. This is not saying it is better or worse than other fast-food restaurants — it is different," Barth said.

Noting the basic meal served is roast beef, he added, "Everything in the restaurant is roasted. Even the desert items, such as the apple turnovers, are roasted. The potatoes we sell are roasted hash browns. We don't fry our products at Arby's."

Barth asked and answered the question on whether Upland needs another fast-food restaurant.

Slide program

Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Lamore will present a slide program entitled "Our American Heritage" on May 2 at 2 p.m. at the Upland Public Library.

Some of the places visited will be Mt. Vernon, Monticello, the Amish country in Pennsylvania.

Health testing fair slated at area shopping center

Health Expo '79, a three-day health testing fair involving more than 50 local health and service organizations, will be held at the Montclair Plaza April 27, 28 and 29.

Seventeen different health tests will be given during each of the three days. In addition, there will be demonstrations and health information provided.

"The purpose of the fair is to give residents in the area an opportunity to gain early detection of health problems and to provide them with better health information," said John Crowe, promotional coordinator for the event.

Although information on childhood will be available, health screenings are available only to persons over 18 years of age, Crowe said.

One of the 17 tests to be offered during the event will be oral screening, offered through the Tri-County Dental Society, a component of the American Dental Association, Crowe said.

In the oral screening, qualified dentists will be searching for visible tooth decay, severe problems requiring orthodontics, and major problems with soft tissue and gums that could be pre-cancerous indicators.

"Limited facilities will not allow complete examinations, but dentists will give advice on how to seek special attention when needed," Crowe said.

The educational part of the dental program is one of the society's central functions, according to society spokesman Dr. Charles Issac.

"Ethical dentists try to practice preventive medicine because it is simpler, less expensive and less traumatic to the patient than corrective treatments," Issac said.

In addition to the dental screening, Medivac paramedic-ambulance service personnel will conduct anemia and blood chemistry tests, and present demonstrations on emergency medical equipment.

Medivac, which provides emergency medical service to most cities in the West End, will have its paramedics give finger prick blood tests for anemia and take blood for blood chemistry tests.

While the blood chemistry test costs $7, the fee is used entirely to cover the costs of lab services to process the tests, Crowe said.

This test is one of only two which require a lab fee, he said.

The Montclair Plaza Merchants Association is working with the Claremont, Pomona and San Bernardino chapters of the American Red Cross, KNBC-TV, FedMart stores, and the Hospital Council of California to sponsor the event, Crowe said.

More information on the health fair may be obtained by calling either the Pomona, Claremont or West End offices of the American Red Cross.

Jill Board of the Claremont YMCA makes notes as Holger Paetau takes the three-minute step test for stress. The test is one of 17 being given during Health Expo '79, a three-day health-testing fair April 27-29 at the Montclair Plaza. The event is being coordinated by the American Red Cross. Several of the tests will deal with stress detection and counseling.

Kiwanis project

Smoke detectors will go to seniors, needy

By KEN SWART
Staff Writer

Local senior citizens will be better protected in case of fire, theft or illness under a new public service program now being conducted by the Ontario Parkway Kiwanis Club, with a little help from its friends.

The Kiwanis Club, assisted by the Ontario building department, the Montclair branch of Santa Fe Federal Savings, and the fire prevention bureau of the Montclair Fire Department, is supplying and installing smoke detectors for senior citizens, the handicapped, and the needy, according to Jules Maziar, club president.

"Our club is doing it as a public service to the community of Ontario," because "the Ontario Fire Department indicated to us it wouldn't be able to handle the cost," Maziar said.

The original program called just for the purchase and installation of state-approved smoke detectors in homes owned by pre-screened residents, according to Maziar, but that's not the way it ended up.

Jim Brown, a Kiwanis member and fire inspector with the Montclair Fire Department, contacted Jim Bookhout, Montclair branch manager of Santa Fe Federal Savings, and both agreed the service club's program was the perfect opportunity to introduce a related safety program sponsored by the bank called Health Alert.

The Health Alert program is similar to the Vial-Of-Life program, in which senior citizens, the handicapped, and the needy are provided with assistance in writing down information about personal health problems, and then given specially designed containers that keep the information in a conspicuous location like a refrigerator.

Stickers are also placed on windows easily seen from the street, so emergency personnel know exactly what to look for and where to look in case they respond to a call at the residence and need specific information about the person's health problems.

"When someone like a paramedic comes into a person's home in an emergency situation they can find out immediately what the problem is," using the information in the Health Alert container, Bookhout said.

On a national level the bank "had a problem getting the word out that the program existed so that's why we (the Montclair branch) are working through the local service club," Bookhout said.

"We just wanted to use Health Alert to expand the club's program and help the Ontario Fire Department, which has indicated it is understaffed and can't handle the cost itself," Brown said.

Although it doesn't have the money to put on the program, "The Ontario Fire Department is very much behind this program and just wish they had the manpower to expand their own fire prevention program in this area," Brown said.

The Ontario Fire Department was apparently not the only agency unable to afford the cost of putting on the program.

"The city of Ontario looked into a similar program but just couldn't do it because of the cost involved," said James Coulter, senior housing counselor for the Ontario building department.

The Ontario Parkway Kiwanis Club is very pleased with the cooperation.

The service club is providing the money to buy about 200 smoke detectors at $15 each, and is providing its entire 48 members as the manpower to screen the residents and install the devices.

Juvenile division supervisor named

District Attorney James Cramer has announced the appointment of Roger Inman as juvenile division supervisor.

Inman replaces Ray Pyle, who has entered private practice.

Inman received a bachelor's degree in political science in 1966 from UCLA, where he received his law degree two years later.

In 1971, Inman joined the San Bernardino County District Attorney's office where he handled a variety of criminal assignments including two years on the narcotics task force.

Inman heads a trial staff of 10 attorneys which prosecutes all juvenile delinquency and dependency actions in the juvenile court.

Honored will be Noralie Clinton of Upland, receiving the Roman Catholic award; Ray Schulman of Ontario, receiving the Jewish award; and James M. Cramer of Upland, receiving the Protestant award.

Dr. T. Stanley Warburton will be honored posthumously.

The purpose of the National Conference of Christians and Jews is to promote goodwill, justice, understanding and cooperation among all people irrespective of religion, race, national origin or economic status, according to the organization's bylaws.

Members are dedicated to eliminating intergroup prejudices which are harmful to religious, business, social and political relations, with a view to establishing a social order under which the ideal of brotherhood would become the standard of human relationships.

The Brotherhood Awards have been presented locally since 1963. Selections are made by nominations presented to the board members and representatives of the three faiths, Jewish, Catholic and Protestant.

Since 1963, there have been 51 individuals honored and three groups.

Mrs. Clinton is a member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Upland, where she has taught Christian doctrine for nine years and has been president of the Altar and Rosary Society.

She has been inventory chairman for St. Lucy's Priory in Glendora for eight years, a member of the Catholic Daughters for 15 years and a social chairman for Damien High School, La Verne, on two occasions.

Mrs. Clinton has been a volunteer for the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council in many capacities, and is an active volunteer for the West End United Way. She has been a member of the National Charity League, Foothill Chapter, for 12 years and her four daughters were Ticktocks. Currently, she is league president.

Mrs. Clinton and her husband, John, a deacon in the Roman Catholic Church, have six children. Mrs. Clinton is a native of Santa Monica and a graduate of USC.

Schulman is a member of Temple Beth Israel and has been active in temple work for 30 years.

Now retired, he is a volunteer providing transportation for blind senior citizens for the American National Red Cross and working on the weekday noon deliveries for Meals on Wheels. He also transports children from Hawthorne Elementary School on field trips.

Prior to his retirement, Schulman and his wife, Mildred, conducted three Cramer, his wife Betty, and their two children are active in the First United Methodist Church of Upland. Cramer is the district attorney of San Bernardino County and is in his second four-year term.

He has served as chairman of the board of trustees for his church and as a member of the administrative board. Cramer is an eight-year member of the Upland Rotary Club and he also belongs to the San Bernardino Rotary Club, Ontario Elks Lodge, Upland Masonic Lodge and American Legion, San Bernardino Post.

Cramer has been active in school tax elections and supported candidates for school, city council and countywide offices. He belongs to the American Bar Association, California State Bar Association, San Bernardino Bar Association, National District Attorneys Association and is chairman of the law and legislation committee of the California District Attorneys Association.

Cramer has worked actively with youth groups in the area, including Indian Guides, Cub Scouts, Pony League, soccer team sponsor and served as a girls' softball team coach.

Before Dr. Warburton died earlier this year, he had belonged to the First Presbyterian Church in Upland. He was superintendent of Chaffey College from 1970 until 1975 when he retired.

Dr. Warburton became District 530 Rotary International governor in 1975, and maintained memberships in Town Hall of California, University Club of Claremont, Fontana Area Chamber of Commerce, Salvation Army advisory board of the local citadel and the local National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He was active for many years with the West End United Way and served as campaign chairman for 1976-77.

The educator's widow, Lina Jane Warburton of Upland, will accept the award.

Democratic committee supports freeway plan

The San Bernardino Democratic County Central Committee passed a resolution urging the completion of the Foothill Freeway by unanimous vote at their monthly meeting in March.

The resolution read as follows:

WHEREAS, the congestion of traffic on Foothill Boulevard between La Verne and Interstate 15 exacerbates vehicular and personal collisions and injuries, and increases air pollution along this corridor, and

WHEREAS, the populations of La Verne, San Dimas, Montclair, Upland, Rancho Cucamonga and Fontana have increased appreciably within the last five years causing the above mentioned hazards to proliferate geometrically;

RESOLVED: that the officers of the San Bernardino Democratic County Central Committee inform the elected officials and other appropriate office holders of the State of California of the Committee's support for the expeditious completion of the Foothill Freeway between the City of La Verne and Interstate 15.

Administrator files claim against Chaffey College

By DONALD J. NEWMAN
Staff Writer

A Chaffey College administrator is seeking financial compensation for injuries he alleges were the result of "harassment" by college President James Catanzaro.

Jack Michie, 52, formerly an assistant superintendent for instruction and now assistant superintendent for development, filed a workman's compensation claim Jan. 25 requesting financial remuneration for permanent disability, reimbursement for medical expenses and for the cost of proving his claim.

No amount has been specified and the case has yet to be heard by the state Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board.

Michie, an educator for 27 years who has been at Chaffey for about three years, charged his "heart, vascular system and emotions" sustained injury because "I have been subjected to stress, strain and harassment."

Catanzaro said any medical problems Michie had were not due to any actions by his administration. "I really can't understand it—it's really difficult for me to comprehend why this claim was filed," he said, adding the college has not been officially notified of the case.

"I can assure you absolutely...that at no time...has any employee been personally harassed by me or the administration," he continued.

Michie said he has never had any stress-related medical problems until his reassignment in September from the Alta Loma campus to the Corona-Norco satellite facility. His job responsibilities were changed with the move.

The transfer removed him from "a position of prestige and authority, an office representative of my station. Without any due process I was suddenly moved down to the Corona office which is anything but the same kind of place. It was demoralizing and degrading," he said.

The administrator said his new office was on the second floor of the smaller facility, vacant during the daytime, where only he and a secretary worked. The only other employees there were an administrator and an assistant who were at the other end of the building, he said.

Michie said he thought the move was a result of disagreements between him and the president over fiscal policies.

Also, he was not allowed to speak to the public, he said.

"I was cramping his style...I knew enough about the budget and my philosophical position was different enough that he had to get me out of the way," Michie said.

Catanzaro has denied Michie's transfer was related to any personal conflicts but said it was part of an administrative reorganization. Michie was moved to the Corona facility because of a lack of office space on the main campus, Catanzaro said.

Michie was transferred to a high-level position equivalent in title and pay, according to Catanzaro, who said the change was not a demotion. "He was given a rather substantial assignment to research life-long programs in community colleges and universities across the county and up and down the state," said Catanzaro.

The president said he has noted an increase in similar types of claims among public employees generally and said he thinks stress is simply a condition which could affect a middle-aged public servant.

Michie, whose retirement from Chaffey becomes effective June 2, has been on medical leave since mid-March on the advice of his doctor.

Sixth annual 'Walk for Handicapped' set

By LINDA BERGSTEDT
Panorama Editor

Young and old alike will be walking for a good local cause on Saturday, April 21, when the Altrusa Club of Ontario-Upland sponsors the sixth annual "Walk for the Handicapped."

Both individuals and groups will attempt to walk 20 miles that day and receive contributions on a per-mile basis from sponsors. Walkers of all ages are welcome. In the past, the youngest walker to complete the route was 8 years old and the oldest was 75.

It has been proclaimed Altrusa Month in Upland by Mayor George Gibson in support of this year's walk. Co-chairmen of the 20-mile walk, which begins and ends at John Galvin Park in Ontario, are Jane Pace and Dorothy Tate.

Walk forms are available in the student activities offices at local high schools and at Edison School, corner of Sixth Street and Sultana Avenue in Ontario.

In addition to raising money for local programs for the physically, mentally and educationally handicapped people in the West End, participants will be eligible for several prizes. These prizes, donated by local merchants, will include a first prize of an overnight stay for a family of four at the Disneyland Hotel and four ticket books for Disneyland; a second prize of a $25 passbook savings account; and a third prize of a $15 pair of shoes.

T-shirts, silk-screened with "Altrusa... I care I can I did... Walk for the Handicapped," will be presented to all walkers earning $25 or more for the walk fund. The T-shirts were designed by Penny Carpenter, an Altrusa member, and are being silk-screened by Richard Andrew's art class at Upland High School.

Other prizes will be awarded to participants with the greatest number of sponsors and those earning the most money for the walk fund.

The trophies and prizes will be presented at the Walk for the Handicapped Awards Night to be held at 7 p.m. May 24 at the Development Center for Handicapped Minors, corner of Allyn Avenue and D Street, Ontario.

During the five previous walks, the Altrusa Club of Ontario-Upland has raised over $30,000 which has been used for the benefit of handicapped children and adults in the West End area.

Disbursement of those past funds has included the following: Cypress Orthopedic Unit in Ontario, $8,956.03; Development Center, $928.59; Linda Vista School, $2,093.42; Ontario High School Orthopedic Program, $1,481.48; Salem Christian Home for the Handicapped in Ontario, $2,120.49; Home of Angels in Ontario, $227.80; Upland Elementary Schools Educationally Handicapped Program, $4,708.78; and Ontario Elementary Schools Educationally Handicapped Program, $4,102.14.

Also: grants and scholarships to handicapped individuals, $3,045.62; Brass Ring Horseback Riding for Handicapped, $525; Chaffey High School Special Training Program, $500; Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens, $300.76; West End Child Development Center, $388; West End Boys' Clubs, $120; West Landia School, $232.51; Pomona Valley Transcribers Guild, $35; the literacy project of the Altrusa Resource Library, $338.47; and miscellaneous, $400.30.

Ralph Ramirez, 16, a sophomore at Ontario High School, will be pushed in his wheelchair by his mother as part of the sixth annual "Walk for the Handicapped." The event is being sponsored Saturday, April 21, by the Altrusa Club of Ontario-Upland. Proceeds will benefit local programs for the handicapped. Sponsor forms for participants are available at local high schools. (Staff photo by H. Lorren Au Jr.)

Local Boy Scouts to hold camporee

More than 500 Boy Scouts are expected to attend the Sunrise District Camporee to be held April 20 to 22 on the grounds of Chaffey High School in Ontario.

The camporee will start at 5 p.m. April 20 and conclude at noon on Sunday, April 22, with the theme being on "Physical Fitness."

The events will be taken from the Personal Fitness Merit Badge Booklet. Each boy participating will either complete or nearly complete the requirements for the personal fitness merit badge.

During the event, recognition will be given to the finest patrols, according to Martin Walsh, camporee chairman. Any questions about the weekend outdoor camping adventure should be directed to Walsh at 983-0244 or James Shankwiler at 985-2062, adult leaders of the Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Visitors are invited to observe the camporee. Walsh said, "We hope to show the community the advantages of belonging to the Boy Scout program. This camporee is being held in the community so that all may see and appreciate scouting."

A highlight of the camporee will be the campfire at 7:45 p.m. on April 21 when the Order of the Arrow Indian Dance Team will perform.

Claremont educators contend:

Airport threatens college growth

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Making frequent comparisons with Oxford University in England, representatives of The Claremont Colleges said recently current and proposed operations at Cable Airport threaten some college development.

Their concerns over potential conflicts with the Upland airport and the colleges' plans for housing were voiced before the West Valley Airport Land Use Commission in Upland.

Several debates about future land use near the airport have surfaced now that the commission and its local steering committee are charged with drafting a comprehensive land-use study for the airport.

With assistance from the state, the Cable plan will ultimately serve as a model for land-use studies near similar general aviation airports in California. A model plan for Big Bear City Airport has been drafted and one is eventually scheduled for Ontario International Airport.

But the Cable plan is not expected to be ready for public hearing until July. Meanwhile, some guidelines for development near the airport, particularly to the east, are in limbo.

Kenneth Baker, president of Harvey Mudd College, noted the presidents of the six Claremont Colleges sent the commission a letter "of opposition to the airport at its present level of operation."

"It's our intention to oppose any expansion or any future development of the airport," he said.

Cable Airport currently serves as home base for 325 aircraft and hopes to expand to 460 planes by 1995, said Jim DeAgullera, senior planner for the commission.

Referring to development of Oxford University over eight centuries, Baker said, "Our time period is vastly different from yours. You talk about 1995, we're talking about eight centuries into the future."

"We see the issue as the existence of the airport and the future of The Claremont Colleges. We believe it's a present threat to the 5,000 students that live in the path of the runway — who play and work there everyday — and we think it's a very, very serious matter."

Robert Bernard — president emeritus of Claremont Graduate School and University Center — noted more than $200 million has been invested in land, buildings and endowments for the six colleges.

He vowed the colleges would "take whatever steps are necessary" to protect its land use.

In comments following the discussion, Paul Cable, general manager of the airport, said the college representatives' remarks "surprised" him and suggested the educators were overstating their worries for greater impact.

The discussion focused on 20 acres between Mills Avenue and Claremont Boulevard on the south side of Foothill Boulevard.

Baker said the land "offers the only direction" Harvey Mudd College can expand and "is also of interest to Scripps College because it is essentially landlocked and it has interests as well in this property."

A cone-shaped approach zone extending from the end of Cable's runway crosses the colleges' property. The zone is considered an area of potential hazard, but one that diminishes with distance from the runway.

The land-use study may affect future development in the zone, which is 3,000 feet long overall.

Cable suggested proper arrangement of the colleges' proposed uses for the area — student housing, recreation and parking — would present no conflict with airport operations.

He also noted the colleges have other acreage, but Bernard stressed the importance of contiguous college development.

Cable said portions of the 20 acres have been acquired by the colleges during the airport's 34 years of existence.

"I've never known an airport to damage any property or any people's lives in the city of Claremont. So after 34 years of having the airport there and living with the colleges, I'm sure something can be worked out so we can continue to live side by side," he said.

Steve Maaranen — associate professor of political science of Claremont Men's College — said the approach zone clips the north part of the college's hoped-for, 83-acre Claremont Sports Park, but suggested plans for the land could be adjusted to avoid airport conflict.

Children's motor skill clinic set

The Cal Poly physical education department is conducting a motor development clinic for 5 to 12-year-old children who are experiencing movement problems. The clinic, which is under the direction of Drs. V. B. Anoshian and S. G. Morris, Cal Poly professors of physical education and specialists in adaptive education, is one of only about four in southern California.

The clinic's programs will be tailored to each child's needs. A battery of tests will be administered to the child and a motor profile established. The child's parents or guardians, clinic directors and a clinician, who has been specially trained to work with the children, will meet to develop a movement therapy program. Once the program is established, a clinician will work on a one-to-one basis with the child.

Children will be assessed for perceptual motor ability, sensory motor integration ability, selected physical attributes, range of motion status, body segmental balance and selected locomotor / reception / propulsion skill ability.

The initial consultation is free. The assessment battery costs $25, with therapy program rates from $43 to $85 for five to 10 weeks. The therapy program includes two weekly visits to the clinic and an at-home program.

For more information, call Anoshian or Morris at (714) 598-4613.

Ontario rosarian's Paradise wins top 'All-America' rating

By RICHARD PERAZA
Staff Writer

"It will take approximately seven years to develop a rose and get it on the market," said Ollie Weeks of Ontario.

A rose hybridizer since 1954, he keeps a color picture of his latest flower — the Paradise — on his desk.

The Paradise is one of three roses which won All-America Awards from All-America Rose Selections (AARS) this year.

Since 1939, only 106 out of 1,700 entries have won that honor.

The award is not Week's first, he has produced five other award winners and, with a partner, co-produced five more.

But the Paradise "is my favorite at the present time. I think it's my best rose," he said.

Awards judges were also impressed, according to AARS representatives, and, for the first

Pomona firm gets $21 million laser contract

The Pomona division of Xerox Corp. will do 90 percent of the work on a $21.7 million contract for a laser system used to train Army troops.

The laser system will indicate when a soldier has been hit during war games. It is intended to provide a touch of realism to simulated warfare.

The system is known as a multiple integrated laser engagement system and will be used at the Navy Training Equipment Center in Orlando, Fla.

time in 38 years, unanimously chose it a winner without even bothering with a formal vote.

The AARS representatives described the bud's color as follows: "As the bud unfolds, its center becomes silvery-lavender, with each petal edged in vivid, bright pink, presenting a rose with an entirely new and unique color combination. As the flower ages, or in cool weather, the silver-lavender deepens and the pink becomes bright, ruby red, appearing to have been literally poured around each petal margin, from which it gradually spreads over the whole flower."

The color, Weeks said, "is very rare... it is possibly the best rose hybridized since the Rose Peace came out in 1945."

Although there are hundreds of different rose varieties, they all fall into five groups, he said.

— Hybrid Tea Rose, considered the most popular type in the country (the Paradise is one) and noted for large buds on long, single stems.

— Floribunda, a rose type that grows on hedges, usually having very short stems.

— Grandiflora, a cross between Hybrid Tea and Floribunda, it has middle length stems and smaller blooms.

— Climber, can be trained to climb along trellises or fences.

— Miniature, tiny versions of the above three types.

A fine rose must be bred, according to Weeks. "Lots of flowers come from seed, but not a rose... you have to bud or graft to get the same plant again, you'll never get it from seed."

"You do like you do any other thing, you take the best and put it with the best and go from there," he said. "You fail a hell of a lot more times than you succeed. It's just like race horses. Look at all they put out for stud, but how many (foals) ever pay off?"

A hybridizer will collect pollen, from a plant he wants to breed from and apply it to another he wants to cross with, Weeks said.

The result will be thousands of seeds but the hybridizer will be lucky if 20 percent germinate and grow after planting, he said.

Resulting blooms, hundreds of them, are inspected and evaluated. If none are what the hybridizer is looking for, it's back to seed but if one has the proper qualities, it's time for budding or grafting, Weeks said. About 1½ years will have passed by this time, according to Weeks.

A hybridizer will look for good color, large blooms with long buds and lots of petals for good shape, he said. "The number of petals is very crucial," he said. "Unless a rose has 25 to 30 petals, as far as the public's concerned, it's no good. Out of 10,000, 12,000, 15,000 — if we save 10 varieties we feel we've done pretty good."

The hybridizer will take the most promising plants and bud them into 10 "understalks." An understalk is a rose that will be used to breed strength into the project rose and protect it, Weeks explained.

He said the hybridizer will continue budding the plant until he has developed a large stock of them. Additional plants must always be obtained through budding because the seed will never produce uniform plants, he said.

Weeks had one tip for persons who grow roses — sunshine. "Roses require a lot of sun, if they don't get it you're going to have mildew," he said.

Paradise, a hybrid tea rose picked as an award winner in the 1979 All-America rose selections, was developed in Ontario by Ollie Weeks, a rosarian since 1954. The flower, picked unanimously by the judges, may be the best rose hybridized since the Rose Peace came out in 1945, its developer says.

Paul Hofer shows a mounted drake mallard to Sue Mallard, chapter secretary, during a planning session of the banquet committee of the Pomona Valley Chapter of Ducks Unlimited, which is planning a sportsmen's banquet May 8 in Chino.

Sportsmen's dinner planned in Chino

The Pomona Valley Chapter of Ducks Unlimited, an international conservation group for waterfowl management, will hold its Annual Sportsmen's Banquet on May 8 starting with a social hour at 6 p.m., at the El Prado Country Club, 6555 Pine Ave., Chino. A auction, of such items as shotguns, limited editions of wildlife prints by name artists, and other special items, plus many other opportunities to win valuable prizes, including door prizes, will be the feature of the evening which also includes a social hour and a delicious prime rib dinner.

Rick Smith, ticket chairman, reports that advance ticket sales are brisk. Those who purchase their tickets prior to April 15 will be eligible to win the "Early Bird" drawing prize of a quality shotgun. Tickets may be obtained by calling Doug Harsen (213) 331-2279, Ron Hendrickson (714) 986-1189, or Mike Raanauge (714) 735-4185.

Ducks Unlimited, a non-profit organization founded in 1937, generates funds to develop and protect waterfowl breeding areas and the water resources necessary to serve these areas.

All projects are carried out on land in Canada donated by farmers and the Canadian government. To date, Ducks Unlimited activities have resulted in the creation of approximately 2½ million acres of nesting ponds mostly in the western Canadian provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta where over 80 percent of the North American waterfowl breed.

Funds for these projects have been raised through membership dues and fund raising "Sportsmen's Banquets" sponsored by the various local Ducks Unlimited chapters.

City of Hope Golf Tournament slated

The ninth annual City of Hope Golf Tournament will be held May 1 at Los Serranos Country Club in Chino.

The annual classic is sponsored by the Chino Chapter City of Hope to raise funds in support of the pilot programs at the medical center in Duarte.

San Dimas is site for campers

The Los Angeles Chapter of the Christian Campers Club of California will be rolling into the local area from every direction for their regularly monthly outing this weekend at Frank Bonelli Regional Park, 120 Park Road, San Dimas.

The Christian Campers Club is a strictly nondenominational group promoting family-oriented campouts with opportunities for spiritual growth through Christian fellowship.

Campout dates are the third full weekend each month, Friday afternoons to Sunday 2 p.m. Arrivals are met with bell-ringing, horn-blowing welcomes. Locations for the campouts are kept to within 100 miles of L.A. City Hall.

The leisurely program for the weekend includes Saturday 9 a.m. doughnuts and coffee, followed by devotions led by the wagon master of the month.

The Saturday 4 p.m. potluck gives the cooks just time enough to ready the rigs for the evening. At dusk, chairs ring the campfire for the time of testimonies and song.

Additional information concerning the club may be obtained by writing Christian Campers Club of California, P.O. Box 606, Homeland, Calif. 92348.

The Menno-Choralaires of Upland will present a concert at the Foothills Communities Church of the Nazarene on Sunday at 6 p.m. The church is located at 9944 Highland, Alta Loma. The Menno-Choralaires is an interdenominational male choral organization now in their 12th concert season.

In Diamond Bar

Cornerstone placed for new church

Members of Mt. Calvary Lutheran, Diamond Bar, recently placed the cornerstone of their new $500,000 church plant at special services conducted at the site located at Golden Springs and Prospectors. The service was attended both by members and friends of the community.

The Rev. O. A. Waech, D.D., executive assistant to the president of the Southern California district in the area of missions and stewardship was the guest speaker, and the local pastor the Rev. Wm. H. Ilten, served as liturgist and officiant. A brass ensemble from Lutheran High, La Verne accompanied the congregational singing, and the choir of the church as well as a children's choir sang anthems. James Klawiter and Mrs. Barbara Triessmann directed the choirs.

Speaking at the ceremonies in addition to a number of officials of the Southern California district of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, were Roger Campbell, a representative from the office of Peter Schabarum, county supervisor; and Ronald G. Foerstel, president of the Municipal Advisory Council of Diamond Bar.

The black granite cornerstone was inscribed with the name of the church and the year of construction, 1979, and faces a copper box containing 27 items of historical interest which is imbedded in the masonry.

A 5:30 p.m. dinner held at the Diamond Bar Country Club under the auspices of the Aid Association for Lutherans climaxed the festivities. A charter of Branch membership was presented to Robert Courtney, branch chairman and a plaque of appreciation was given to the Glenn Triessmann family who are moving to Dallas, Texas.

Child center open house program set

In celebration of the International Year of the Child, the Mt. San Antonio College home economics department will present an open house in the Child Development Center on campus April 16 to 20. Area residents are invited to visit the Center anytime Monday through Friday from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Tuesday evening from 6 to 8.

A slide - narration will be presented by the department at the board of trustees' regular monthly meeting, Wednesday evening, April 18, in the board room of the Administration Building. The show will outline the Child Development Center's program, and the nursery school training program for MSAC students.

Child Abuse, and Poisonous Plants will be the subjects of a talk by noted pediatrician Dr. Guy Hartman, assistant chief of pediatrics at the Kaiser / Permanente Medical Center in Fontana, on April 19, at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Technology Center, Bldg. 28. Last summer, Dr. Hartman co-directed a two-day workshop on "Diagnosis and Recognition of Child Abuse" at the 5th Annual Desert Hospital Seminar Program, in Palm Springs. He has made hundreds of appearances before civic and educational groups over the past five years to bring the two dangers to the attention of the general public. His lectures, in addition to detailing how to recognize child abuse, and plants which are poisonous to children, include information on when and how to get help for the distressed child. A graduate of the University of Buffalo's School of Medicine, Dr. Hartman is an attending pediatrician at Children's Hospital, Los Angeles, as well as Kaiser Foundation Hospital, Fontana. He is also a clinical professor of pediatrics at the University of Southern California. The public is cordially invited to attend any and all events of the Week of the Child. Further information may be obtained by calling the Home Economics Department, 714-594-5611, Ext. 621, or the Child Development Center, 714-598-2307.

Lloyd against raising U.S. debt

Rep. Jim Lloyd, D — 35th District, has voted against raising the national debt ceiling by $32 billion. The House passed the increase by a vote of 209 to 165.

"The spiraling cost of the federal government must be stopped," Lloyd said in casting his opposing vote. "This is just a first step in controlling federal funding. We must bring government costs into line if the federal government is going to take the lead in controlling inflation."

Lloyd is the sponsor of a balanced budget amendment. "I am pleased by one aspect of the debt ceiling bill," Lloyd continued. "It requires the Budget Committee to report a balanced budget by fiscal year 1981."

Chaffey offers special program Summer camp slated

Chaffey College's Extended Opportunities Programs and Services program (EOPS) is now interviewing potential students for its summer readiness program called New Opportunity Workshop (NOW), according to Pete Nelson, Director.

Seventy-five individuals from low income homes or who are minorities will be selected to attend the seven-week summer course. The NOW program provides this summer readiness course under the provisions of SB164 which states that all community colleges must address the problems of the disenfranchised student and provide those students with additional educational services. The NOW student is defined as being a full-time student who is a member of a family with a total gross annual income of $7,500 or less.

The summer NOW course provides services for these students in the areas of confidence building, enrichment experiences and skill-level determination.

The NOW program also provides financial assistance. After the summer seven-students begin enrolling in regular Chaffey College classes. These students, who may have a history of poor academic achievement because of language, cultural, economic, ethnic or racial differences, will receive constant support from the NOW program in the form of weekly meetings with a peer counselor and financial assistance.

Financial support is available through various means, and the NOW student must sign a contract stating that he or she is enrolled as a full-time student maintaining a grade point average of 2.0 in order to receive the financial aid.

For more information about the NOW summer program, call Pete Nelson at 987-1737, 822-4484 or 725-0242 extension 355 or 356.

Eight one-week sessions at the Woodcraft Rangers' Stanley Ranch Camp will be offered boys and girls, ages seven through fourteen beginning June 25, according to James C. Flanders, executive director of the United Way-sponsored youth organization.

Open to non-members as well as members of the Woodcraft Rangers, the camp offers a program of horseback riding, swimming, bicycle motocross, crafts, cookouts and more, Flanders says.

Now in its 37th year, the Stanley Ranch Camp was attended last summer by 1,277 boys and girls.

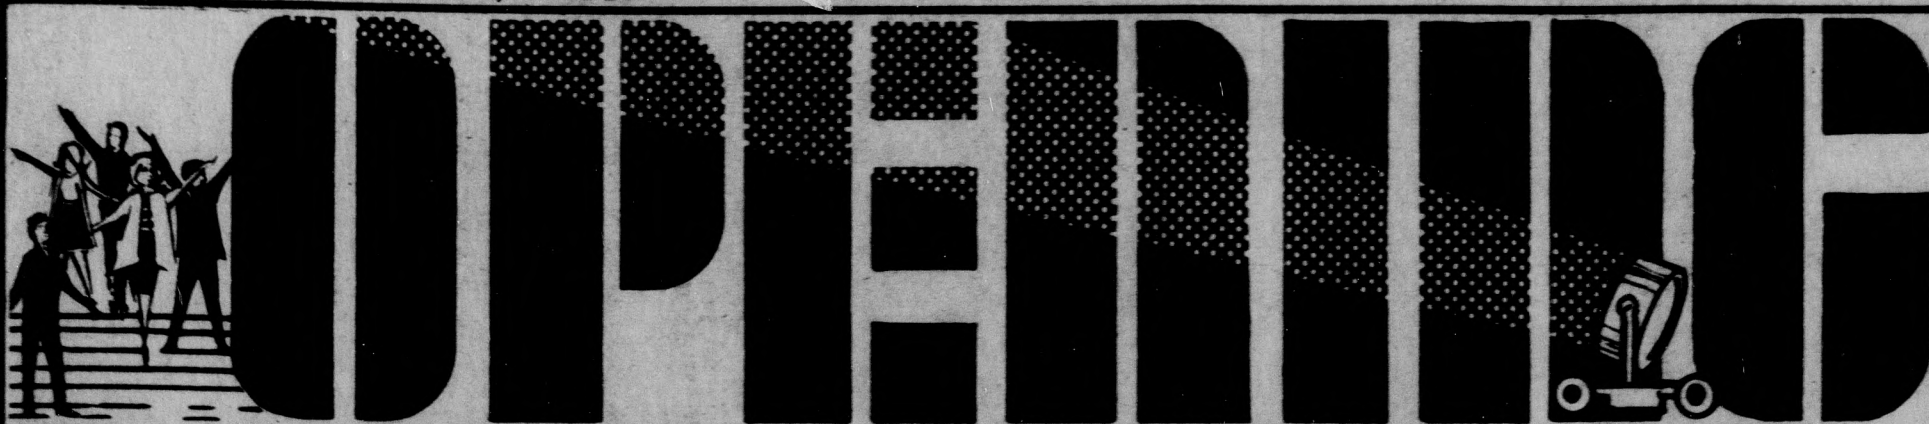

"Because administrative and organizational costs are subsidized by United Way, we are able to set the camp fee at a low non-profit rate within the reach of most families," Flanders said.

Interested parents are invited to secure descriptive literature and registration applications by contacting Woodcraft Rangers, 2111 Park Grove Ave., Los Angeles, CA 90007 or by phone (213) 749-3031.

With $4.8 billion for expenditures and $97.9 billion for compliance costs — the total cost of regulation should be $102.7 billion for the fiscal year of 1979.

Firefighters burned the Lake Arrowhead Village Inn down to the ground Thursday. The "controlled burn" was part of a fire training exercise involving 24 different departments from throughout the county. The inn, and most of the Village shopping area it's a part of,

must be leveled anyway to make room for a new shopping center at the south shore of Lake Arrowhead.

County firefighters at Arrowhead Village burns in good cause

A small group of sweaty firefighters pushed back the visors on their helmets and gazed in amusement as flames erupted through the roof of the Lake Arrowhead Village Inn.

It was almost time for them to go in and put the blaze out — again.

Most of the south shore village must be leveled to make way for a new shopping center complex, giving firefighters from 24 different departments a chance to practice their science on controlled burns.

Representing Ontario was Division Chief Joe Piscioneri, serving as a training officer. "My main job up here is to help in logistics and to coordinate all the field medical stuff," he said.

He said a controlled burn the size of the one sponsored by the Lake Arrowhead Fire Protection District and San Bernardino County Association of Fire Chiefs is rare.

"We had (Ontario) crews lined up for each day here but we canceled them out because we didn't have a truck," Piscioneri said.

The truck developed transmission problems and, because the department is now Proposition 13 conscious, officials were reluctant to issue another truck, the chief said.

The field hospital, with seven cots, was empty. By Thursday night there had been no injuries. But Piscioneri said the mini-hospital was fully equipped. "We can handle major burns, we have I-V solutions, oxygen and oxygen masks."

He said medical personnel on duty had paramedic equipment including heart defibrillators and a special radio link with a hospital.

"We're trying to be so careful. We've got a full safety team and we don't do anything until they say go," he said about the controlled burn.

Piscioneri was also "the torch," setting fires inside sections of the inn for the practice session.

"What I'm actually doing is the same thing as an arsonist," he said. "We deliberately set it so the fire will communicate between the rooms and go up into the attic."

The inn was divided into three sections to be burned separately, because of the particular fire problems architecture in each would produce.

The first blaze roared through an end portion and up into the attic, its advance stopped by a section of roofing the firefighters had removed as a firebreak and by a snorkel truck continually dousing the rest of the building.

New firefighters, Piscioneri said, were led through the lower and upper floors to demonstrate how most of the heat and dangerous gasses rise in a fire.

Each time a team of firefighters went into the blaze, they were counted and a second head count was taken each time a group came out, Piscioneri said.

Also, he said, teams of spotters scanned the surrounding buildings and foliage for small "spot fires" started by stray sparks.

But he said spectators trying to get a look at the blaze were the biggest problem.

The firefighter set one of the final blazes of the day, then scurried to safety outside.

"Didn't make you nervous, did it?" a news photographer asked.

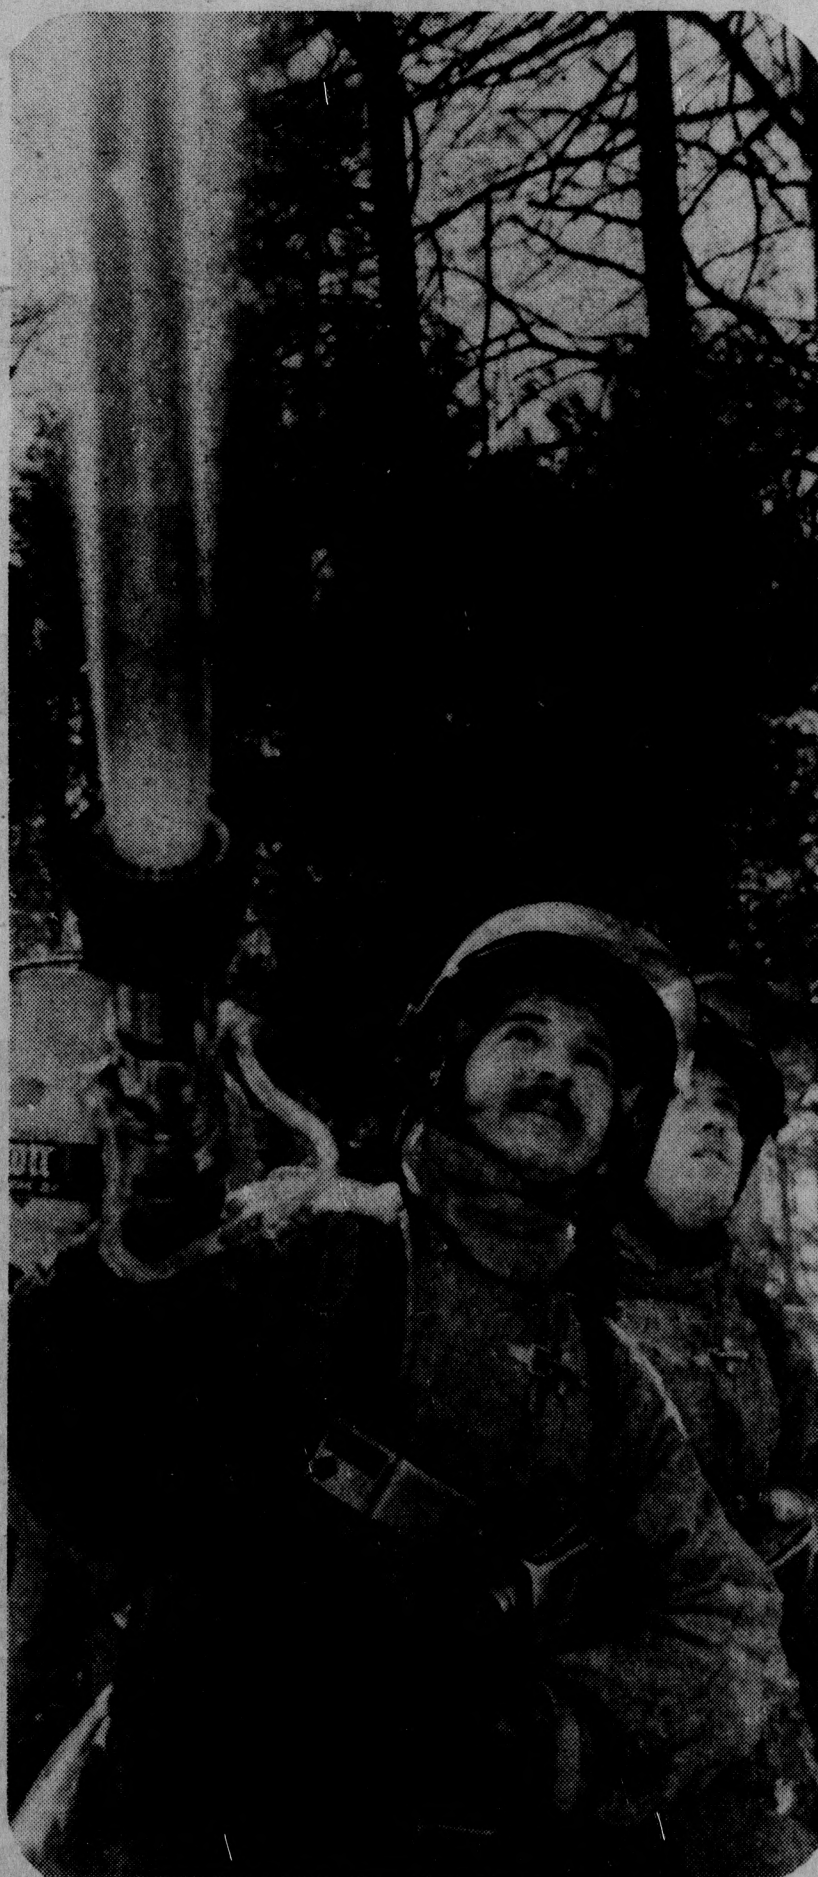

"Oh, a little bit," Piscioneri said, "when it (the fire) went by me."

News reporters and firefighters watched, far left, as the first flames poked through the roof of Lake Arrowhead Village Inn Thursday. But the building, part of a major training exercise, was to be burned in sections so firefighters with hoses, left, were stationed in the hallways to keep the blaze from spreading too far. Firefighters from 24 different departments, like Capt. Mike Tessier and Engineer John Becker, above, of Victorville, took turns battling the blaze from the outside.

Cal Poly plans a variety of displays at open house

By VONNE ROBERTSON
Staff Writer

The 37th annual Poly Vue open house at Cal Poly Pomona Thursday through April 22 will offer visitors an insight into the numerous academic programs, student activities and varied cultural and social projects offered its 14,000 students.

Thousands of visitors are expected to tour the campus during the program. Cal Poly is one of only two of the 19 institutions in the California State University and Colleges System that is growing in enrollment.

Among the academic displays will be demonstrations of aerospace engineering equipment, students operating electronic equipment, a display of the college's 40-year history, an exhibit of cultural foods, a wildflower display by the Field Botany Club, a display of fish and other marine life and a wide variety of animals and plants.

Most of the numerous clubs and organizations on campus will offer special events or displays.

In addition to the academic and club displays, the open house will be highlighted by a two-day intercollegiate rodeo, an intercollegiate horse show, music, dancing and drama, artists in action, a micro-mini tractor pull contest, a family new games picnic, a fair, and food varying from hot dogs and international cuisine to a pancake breakfast and barbecue beef lunch.

This year's theme for the open house is "Blazing Trails."

Kicking off the Poly Vue events will be a powder puff rodeo with women students participating in several humorous events, and a spring sing. Students, faculty and staff display their talents in the musical event from 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday in the Physical Education Building. Lacy Lop — Cal Poly spelled backwards — features a number of student contests on Friday.

A highlight of the Friday events will be an international dinner in Los Olivos Commons from 4:30 to 6 p.m. In addition to such exotic foods as Philippine spiced chicken and Japanese vegetable fritters, diners will be entertained by the university's jazz band and square dancers. The public is invited to attend the dinner.

Saturday's events start with an early pancake breakfast from 7 to 10:30 a.m. in the campus center dining room.

'House of Blue Leaves' due at college

"Bonkers" is how Claremont Playhouse's Malcolm Atterbury Jr. describes "House of Blue Leaves," the play he is currently directing for the University of La Verne drama ensemble, T-Co. The production, starring student actors, will open at ULV's Dailey Theater May 4, at 8 p.m., and play May 5 and 11.

Written by John Guare, is the story of an aging songwriter, Artie, with a wife, aptly named Bananas, and a mistress, Bunny, who will do anything but cook for him. Other characters include a deaf singer and Artie's son, who wants to blow up the visiting pope, along with several nuns.

Kelly Crawford stars as Artie, April Beckert plays Bananas and Kathleen Hicklin portrays Bunny. Others in the cast include Liz O'Neill and Mark O'Bar. For reservations and information, call 593-3511, extension 248 or 596-7572.

A Cal Poly Pomona student rehearses for the intercollegiate horse show on Saturday during the university's 37th annual Poly Vue open house.

Mime time

Bette Raya and her mime company will appear at the Chaffey College Theater Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. The 22-year-old actress and Rancho Cucamonga resident, teaches mime classes at the college as well. A Chaffey College alumnus, Raya appears with Gabriel Kaplan in the movie "Fast Break."

Former students, all under the direction of Bette Raya, will display a colorful, inventive array of "the world as we can see it." But there is a method to their insanity — this is a program of pantomime ... different types of pantomime. It will touch on everything from classical pantomime done in silence to a full-fledged "Disco Mime" complete with lights, music and "action" ... plus all the right characters.

The cast, which includes six "Bigfoot" mime members and eight dancers from the valley, is very excited about the production because it ventures from the standard idea of the mime performer in black leotard performing solo pieces, to more of an adventure into everyday life where pantomime is present. That's where you find the real treasures according to Raya.

Many moods of dance staged for national spring celebration

Many moods of dance will come together when the Pomona Valley Concert Dance Theater celebrates spring and National Dance Week by staging a dance concert in Garrison Theater, Claremont, on April 28 and 29 and May 11 and 12. Jo Ann Warner, director, has created most of the choreography which will take the audience onto an English seashore in the 1800s, a Japanese garden, a sleazy nightclub of the 1920s while using music of the current disco craze, the jazz era and the symphonic melodies of Tchaikovsky.

Two of the original ballets, "To Thee from Me" and "Night Moves," have been selected for performances by the Concert Dance Theater at the Pacific Regional Ballet Association Festival in Santa Barbara from May 2 through 6.

The ballet, "To Thee from Me," transports the audience to the English seashore and is danced by six men and 10 women. Special arrangements were made to obtain contemporary English composer Malcolm Arnold's score, "English Dances," for the music.

"Night Moves" is a disco-jazz ballet with the four couples and six young women, clad in black and white, interpreting the disco scene.

Robyn Whitney, a former company member, has choreographed this dance. Miss Whitney now dances and choreographs in New York City.

Three original dances by Ms. Warner will be "Windchimes," "La Rauche" and "Chicago."

Kathryn Clayton, recipient of the Monticello College Foundation Scholarship for Choreography and the Leona Norman Award for the most promising young choreographer at the Craft of Choreography Conference, will premiere her dance, "Movin'." This will be performed by six women and a man.

Janine Michalski of Pomona and Eddie Dombrower of Long Beach will be featured in "To a Theme," choreographed by Dick Ford.

Performances on the four days will be held at 8 p.m. April 28 and May 11 and 12; 4 p.m. on April 29; and 2:30 p.m. on April 28 and May 12.

Tickets will be purchased in advance at Bridges Auditorium, Claremont, from company members or by calling the Concert Dance Theater, 629-4557.

Members of the Concert Dance Theater are Arleen Hairabedian of Montclair, standing, and Diane Poirer of Diamond Bar. The dancers will perform in the ballet concert at Garrison Theater, Claremont, on April 28-29 and May 11-12.

FAST FOOD FEVER
...is catching! It's highly contagious. It's reaching epidemic proportions, but it's not a sickness. It's a very healthy and thriving national pastime. Every body's doing it. By 1990, it is estimated that one out of every two meals eaten in America will be eaten away from home, and fast-food outlets are destined to get a major portion of that growing business.

What does that mean to JACK IN THE BOX Restaurants?

It means opportunity. And it means we need capable management people to help us keep up with the pack.

Supervisory or management experience is desired, and we'll train you in the fast food business while paying you $12,000 plus $1,000 commensurate with experience. We offer excellent fringe benefits and rapid advancement opportunities.

If you'd like to be part of this opportunity-filled industry, we are:
